Use Spiritual Principles to Manifest your Sacred Travel Dreams!

This past month has been one of global financial volatility, a situation which has left many travelers and travel-related companies strained. In these chaotic times, the contrast between travel companies who are taking a traditional approach to the way they do business, and those actively engaged in working with spiritual practices is becoming increasingly apparent.

Sacred Sites Journeys is definitely an example of the latter. We live our spirituality as a part of our business practices. One way we do this is by working with our clients to assist them to manifest their sacred travel dreams. As people decide which upcoming spiritual pilgrimage they want to experience with us in order to deepen their spirituality, if they request my help, I talk with them and remind them that when they live from the principle of abundance, as opposed to fear and lack, they can easily and joyfully manifest the funds they need for their spiritual pilgrimage.

Since using these principles applies to all areas of our lives, it's been heartening to see what other things beside sacred travel people have also manifested! What a great affirmation for the workings of Spirit! Once you have an attitude of gratitude for what you do have, you know what you want and are very clear in your intent and focus, and when you surrender the attachment of having to have it, then the Universe does the rest to make it happen. Many of our clients are already manifesting their sacred travel dreams, as we're regularly receiving registrations for our 2009 journeys!

Starting in December, I'll be offering a monthly one hour free teleconference call. During our time together I'll share some of the various ways people who have traveled with me in the past have manifested their journeys. Hopefully some of them will join us and tell you their story in person! As well, we'll discuss your doubts and fears and work to turn them into the Attitude of Gratitude to bring your sacred travel dreams into reality. Details will be posted on our website soon, so bookmark our site and check back with us!

A CHanneled MESSAGE FROM THE KUMARAS

An Introduction from Andrea: I began my journey with trance channeling on the day of the Harmonic Convergence, August 17, 1987, when I opened up to a Light Being who said I'd contracted with it before I took incarnation in this lifetime to bring through its energy and teachings. That momentous day began an inspirational metaphysical journey of over eight years, which I was honored to participate in. The Light Beings shared their spiritual teachings in both private and group sessions as I consented to allow them to use my body as a vehicle through which they could move their energy and thus speak with people. I always felt better on all levels after a channeling session. And several times I went into the session feeling sick, and came out with no symptoms at all!

In April of 1996, during a trip to Mt Shasta with my husband Mark Amaru Pinkham, a new energy came through during a session on the sacred mountain. This loving energy has been working me since that day. It calls itself "Kumara". They say they are the oversoul of the entities that have incarnated here on planet earth as a Kumara. They also say that Kumara is not a name, but rather that it's a vibrational frequency key that assists those it communicates with, both energetically and verbally, to realize the state of Unconditional Love, that which They are, We are. It's a very loving, patient, wise, and sometimes humorous energy!

The teachings of the Kumaras are those of the Divine Feminine. They have told me they will be very honored to be able to share with those of you reading our enewsletter. They come through me and bring their energy and teachings to help you remember what you are, as well as how you can know it and live it in each moment. If the channeling is like those shared by the Kumaras during the past 12 years, you're in for an inspirational and transformational experience.

Here we go.....A Message from the Kumaras

We do bring Greetings of Love to those of you in the third dimensional vibratory frequency. We are Kumara. That which you Be. That which is Love, the substance that is the All That Is. We are most pleased to be in energetic communication with you, both through that which is the written word, as well as through the energetic communication that is being sparked in your cellular structure on all levels of your Beingness as you read these words.

Kumara we are. We are what you humans refer to as the oversoul, the combined frequency of those Beings you refer to as Kumaras. Both those Kumaras that have taken incarnation upon your planet in what you call your times past, as well as still being in contact with you humans in each moment. We are what you might call Overseers of the human race. We are now and have always been and will always be in communication with you humans. (Though time does not exist, and all is now, we use this construct for you humans at this time. We will speak more about the absence of time shortly.)

Our job is to help you remember What you Be. Kumara is not a name. It is the want of the human condition to label. You humans love labels. You believe it helps you to organize your reality. We are here to help you remember that you are the Essence of Love that has come to this dimension to experience the human experience. By connecting with the Kumara Within, you can end the human experiment that you created, and come home to your True Self. Kumara is a frequency key. Ma is the energy of the female vibration. Ra is the energy of the male vibration. Ku is the energy of the combination of both, where balance occurs and the heart center opens and the knowing that you are truly God/Goddess/Unconditional Love occurs. We are here to help you remember this.

You have chosen to live on planet Earth in these pivotal times of change. You agreed to be here to remember your true nature, as well as to help your brothers and sisters remember theirs. For you know that in the Web of Life, All are One. In order to remember your True nature, you must live from the center of your Beingness, that which is your Heart. We do know that this is not always the easiest manner in which to live, especially when your ego wants your attention and tries to bring your focus out of your Heart. It believes its job is to make you believe that it's you. We do say to you that you are not your ego. Your ego can serve you, but it is not you.

We do understand that many of you are going through periods of doubt and confusion, as your ego judges the state of affairs to be chaotic. First of all, we suggest that you remember that this is normal as the energies fluctuate, those energies not only in your cellular frequency, in your very sub-atomic particles, but the energies of all of the cosmos as well. All is in flux and change as your planet moves further into the Light of the Photon Belt. As the end of time as you know it as humans occurs, and it will most assuredly occur in the next few years of what you call your time counting, remember that you all, from the focus of your True Selves, are creating this to happen. As time dies away, you will come to know the joy that comes from living in each moment. It's only when you live out of the moment, when you worry about the past and the future, that you are not your True Self. When you do this, you are not one with your Essence, which is the Love you Be.

Many of you ask how you can live in the moment. We say to you that to do so, you must make every effort to focus. When you focus on the moment, then the pivot point of your consciousness is in your heart center. And when you focus your consciousness in your heart center, you do know the joy of the Now. You know the joy of the Oneness. We hear you asking, "Well it sounds good, and I'd like to be in the moment, but HOW can I do it?" We understand that it sounds simple, but that when you identify with your ego as being you, it can be difficult. When you believe that your cellular memory is programmed from what you call lifetimes of experiences as a human. We again say to you that all "time" is now. That time does not exist. So that when you focus on the Now, you are focusing all of what you call your incarnations in the Now. Therefore, there is no past and there is no future. You cannot be controlled by your cellular memory, as memory denotes the past. Instead you live from your heart's knowingness.

We suggest that for the time of one moon's cycle that you take a few moments during your awake time to just Be. Choose where you'd like to be in your physical body when you do this. We suggest that if you focus on an aspect of what you call Mother Nature – a flower, a tree, a rock, an animal, the sky, a body of water, etc. – something without a human ego, then you will have support from those energies to connect with the Heart of the Matter which is what you Be too. As you become more comfortable letting go of your ego personality and just being, then one moment will become all moments and the Now will be where you live. Then you will meet the perturbations that your interchanges with your life's experiences will bring you with grace, joy, peace and compassion, both for yourself and for all others.

We will change our point of focus shortly and leave the vehicle, thus ending this written communication. We do say to you that we would be most pleased to be able to speak with you on a regular basis through our vehicle and this printed word. If you have points of discussion that you wish to put forth for subsequent communications, please inform our vehicle.

We wish to thank you the opportunity to communicate with you in this manner. And we leave you with his reminder: You are Love. Love is all you are, in each moment.

Parting Words for this month's issue from Andrea:

Since 1994 I've been blessed with the honor and pleasure to operate and lead spiritual journeys to many of the world's powerful sacred sites. During these last fifteen years, the connections I've made with the palpable mystical energies at these ancient power spots has been transformational for me on my path of spiritual growth. It's my joy and passion in life to support others to experience this too!

I invite you to travel with me on an awe-inspiring transformational Sacred Sites Journey! I assure you that there will be life before the journey and life after the journey, and that they won't be the same! You will be changed forever in many positive ways as you encounter and engage the ancient energies and wisdom at the sacred sites you will explore. They are still available to you...if you open your heart and mind and heed their call!

I hope to have the honor to travel with you in 2009 on one (or more!) of our Sacred Sites Journeys. Please contact me if you have any questions or need more information about any of our upcoming spiritual pilgrimages. I'm here to support you to deepen your spirituality through sacred travel.

Peace and Blessings to you!
